

Why do I need RPO?

- 1 Added agility. Recruitment process outsourcing allows you to easily scale recruitment efforts up or down based on need.
- 2 End-to-end assistance. RPO providers not only can help you hire top-notch talent, they can handle career transition services when it comes time to downsizing.
- 3 Greater insight. RPO providers offer everything from data on salaries and hiring rates, to predictive analysis of how long it takes to fill specific positions.
- 4 Long-term success. RPO companies typically get inside your organization and work over several years to improve your recruiting process.
- 5 A shifted burden. Unlike traditional staffing companies, your RPO provider takes ownership of critical details of your recruitment process.
- 6 A bigger pool. RPO companies use every available source to find great talent. Whether it's drawing from their own pool of top candidates, from employee referral programs, or your career site, they find the right person for the job.
- 7 A stronger brand. As your RPO provider's personnel look for talent to meet your needs, they also strive to build a great brand that attracts top talent over the long term.
